LEARNING STYLES INSTITUTE

ED 595 Cognitive Learning Styles Workshop
June 1-6, 2009

COURSE DESCRIPTION:

This workshop is designed for classroom teachers, aides and other education professionals to introduce the Dunn & Dunn Learning Styles Model, its classroom application and how the model works. This course will also include traditional Alaska Native perspectives on teaching and learning by including Alaska Native elder Florence Newman. Special guest presenter Marilee Sprenger, will further add to the application of learning styles in the classroom by sharing brain-based instructional strategies, differentiation and memory research.

Florence

was born and raised in Arctic Village, AK. Florence shares her knowledge of Gwitchin culture with her children and grandchildren on a regular basis. For the last ten years she's worked with teachers and students in the classroom.
